

ABSTRACT

An electronic gauge system having an access module to restrict access to at least one programmable feature of the gauge. The access module is responsive to an instrument-pass to allow and to restrict access to at least one of the programmable features of the gauge. The 5 gauge system may be coupled to a transmitter that allows the gauge to communicate with a central control system.

90065010.doc